Ken Williams, founder and president of Sierra On-Line, Inc.

Dear Computer Gamester!

I'm Ken Williams, President of Sierra On-Line, Inc., and I probably have more fun at work than most people. I spend every day working on computer games that are fun, exciting and adventuresome. It's great!

I've always been the ultimate computer fanatic, and I've always enjoyed being a little ahead of the crowd. I had a computer in my home long before most people had their first pocket calculators. And I was playing (and designing) computer games years before "Pong" and "Space Invaders" brought the world of video games into homes in the early 70's.

Years before IBM even released its now famous PC, my wife and I had started a little business by designing and programming computer games. That business grew with the home-computing market. From the first PC games to use graphics to the multi-media adventures of today, our company has tried to stay a little different. A little better. And a lot more fun.

And that's what we put in this catalog — fun. We're proud to be recognized as the industry's technological leader. But we know technology is only an ingredient, not an entree. The main course is a great challenge and fun!

I test each of these games and computer hardware products myself. And I make sure that each game is challenging, entertaining and fun to play.

I'm glad most people agree with my idea of what makes a great computer game. But if you're not completely satisfied with any product in this catalog, there's a no-risk money back guarantee. (See page 12 for details.)

It's a fun job playing with all these computer goodies. That's why I'm thrilled to be able to share with you the very best in computer games.

Sincerely,

Ken Williams, President

P.S. I wish I could be with you as you enjoy the laughs, the challenges and the adventures. Drop me a note and tell me how much fun you're having.

TURN ON SIERRA GAMES AND WATCH CHILDREN GROW

It's been said that by the year 2000, most jobs and careers will be computer related. That's why at Sierra, Ken and Roberta Williams felt a real need to see young minds introduced to computers as soon as possible. But they also felt it should be fun. Children like to watch television but it's a completely passive medium.

Sierra has software that provides interactive education for young children that entertains them while they learn. It's the best of two worlds, it's just like watching TV, but the child can actively participate in the action.

You'll be giving your children real experience using a computer and that means preparing them for the future.

Mixed-up Mother Goose ™

All your favorite Mother Goose nursery rhymes come to life in dazzling and enchanting 3-D graphics. Your child will be so excited to pick a character that closely resembles him or her. The artistry is phenomenal. From there, the delightful music soundtrack will lead you into a fantasy land of adventure.

As your children help Mother Goose put her nursery rhymes back together they'll be practicing reading (simple language is used to help children improve their reading skills). However, reading skills are not necessary to play. Mouse control point and click and visual graphic clues will easily lead any child through the wonderland of nursery rhymes like Jack Be Nimble, Old King Cole, The Old Woman In The Shoe, and many others.

And they'll be formulating problem solving skills in logic. Most of all they'll be having fun.

The new CD ROM multimedia Mixed-Up Mother Goose has 5 different languages; English, German, French, Spanish and Japanese. Children can learn a foreign language simply by playing a fun and exciting game.
